LOGAN'S POPULARITY.

Great Crowds Greet the Soldier Statesman in New York.

The Long-Delayed Expose of the Morey Letter Appears To-day.

Colorado Utes Depredating in Utah—Whites Killed.

Logan in New York

UTICA, August 15.—General Logan reached Utica at 10 o'clock. There was a great crowd, music and cannonade at the depot. A procession was formed to the Butterfield house, where from the balcony, Senator Coggeshall introduced Logan. Logan expressed the great pleasure it gave him to receive such a cordial welcome where he had been in New York state. References had been made to the services which he had rendered his country. He felt that whatever he may have done in the past had been solely in the line of duty. Every American citizen, when his country is in danger, should stand ready to sustain it by force of arms or otherwise. When Logan finished, three hearty cheers were given. Mayor Sherman, of Utica, announced that Logan would remain an hour in the hotel to receive citizens. Thousands went there to shake hands. Logan left for the west at 11 40 via the New York Central. He will remain in Buffalo over night, leaving at 8 next morning via Buffalo and Pittsburg for Chautauqua. A grand reception is promised there. He expects to reach Chicago Tuesday morning.

SYRACUSE, August 15.—General Logan arrived this afternoon. There were large gatherings at all stations, a hearty greeting by the Grand Army at Rome, one at Ida and one at Conestoga. Brief remarks were made by Logan at Syracuse to many thousands in Vanderbilt square. Committees from Rochester and intermediate points took him in charge.

The Morey Letter Expose

NEW YORK, August 15.—The long delayed expose by U. S. Commissioner John I. Davenport of the Morey letter will be published to-morrow morning. It makes a book of 150 pages. It is largely made up of fac similes of documents showing the forgery in its various forms. The narrative is only a brief part of the whole volume. The book sets forth that the person who actually penned the forged Morey letter was a lawyer of this city named Henry P. Hadler. Davenport describes him as a manipulator of insurance companies of doubtful character, and of other matters equally precarious, with an innate love of intrigue and with a craving for notoriety and desire to dip into politics and to correspond with public men. He quotes from his letters to show that he was always a democrat though at the time of the commission of the forgery he was secretary of the Hancock republican association, in the rooms of which the forgery was committed, on or about October 2, 1880. The forgery according to Hadler's admission and confirmatory evidence collected by Davenport, was originally in the form of an abstract from a supposed interview with General Garfield. Davenport possessed himself of about 1,000 letters written by Hadler between 1873 and 1879, and finds all distinguishing marks of orthography and caligraphy alike in them and the forged letters. There were also peculiar errors in spelling. It was on the display of the evidence of guilt that Hadler confessed his part in the crime. There was no such man as H. L. Morey, to whom the forged letter was supposed to have been written, nor was there ever any such person as Jno W. Goodall, who claimed to have been executor of H. L. Morey and who transmitted the forged letter to the Truth. Hadler wrote Goodall a letter also. Lindley, like Morey, was a fictitious person, and the man O'Brien who personated him is now serving a term in Sing Sing prison for that offense. The language of the Morey letter is shown to have been culled from speeches of Cutler, of New Jersey, Williams, of Wisconsin, Phillips, of Kansas, Luttrell, of California, and others, on the Chinese bill, from testimony of Henry George and others before the house committee on Chinese immigration, and in no sense are extracts from Garfield's writings.

The Utes Depredating

SALT LAKE, Utah, August 15.—Harold Carlisle, agent of the Kansas and New Mexico Cattle company, telegraphed Governor Murray on the 13th inst from Durango, Colo., that a marauding band of Utes came over into the San Juan valley, Utah, from Colorado, killed two white men, burned ranches and provisions of the cattle company, and had driven all whites out of the valley and held possession. Further that the lives of the people were in imminent danger, and homes and property being destroyed. Carlisle asked the governor to telegraph to Washington for aid to corral the Indians and drive them back to their reservation. Governor Murray sent the following telegram, the Carlisle dispatch being appended.

Hon H M. Teller, Secretary Interior, Washington

The following message is just received. On these facts I request that these Indians be returned to their reservation, San Juan county.

ELI MURRAY, Governor.

The Story False

WICHITA, Kan, August 15.—R. J. McKim, among the most respected business men of this city, who is an ardent democrat and former resident of Millersburg, Ky., and who was an intimate friend of Jas G Blaine and whose wife is a graduate of the academy located there, was interviewed by an Eagle reporter to-day in reference to charges lately made against Mr. Blaine. In answer to a question, Mr McKim said "Although myself a democrat I was on intimate terms with James G. Blaine during all the time of his residence in Kentucky, was well informed as to the Millersburg academy, its scholars and its teachers, and the charge that the school was suspended on account of any notorious conduct upon the part of young Blaine or any of his associates, male or female, is entirely false."

A Peculiar Case

GALVESTON, August 15.—A warrant was to-day issued by U S Commissioner Spann for the arrest of John Ireland, governor of Texas, for violating section 5,510 of the revised statutes of the United States. Emil Francero, upon whose deposition the warrant was issued, was convicted in 1869 under the anti miscegenation statute of Texas and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. On the 11th Judge Sabine, of the United States court, granted a hearing to Francero on a writ of habeas corpus. When the case was called for hearing it was announced that the governor granted full pardon to Francero whereupon the writ was dismissed and an order of the court entered discharging Francero. Francero refused to accept the governor's pardon and alleged that it did not restore him to citizenship, and he preferred rather to rely upon the judgment rendered, dismissal of the writ and discharge from custody by the court as the best evidence of his liberty and citizenship. In his affidavit to-day Francero deposes that Ireland as governor of Texas with the penitentiary officials conspired and confidented together for the purpose of preventing rights and privileges secured by the constitution and laws of the United States. Francero is pure white. He is married to a colored woman whose complexion is fairer than his own. The warrant for the arrest of the governor was placed in the hands of Marshal Tracy to-night. The case attracts great attention.

Sheldon Heard From.

KANSAS CITY, August 15.—An unconfirmed report is current here that Alfred Sheldon, the missing Englishman, has been seen in Trenton, Mo. It is stated that Andrew H. Fenley, a restaurant keeper of Trenton, came here and made overtures to the authorities for the reward, saying he had seen Sheldon there and conversed with him.

KANSAS CITY, August 15.—The fact is developed to-night that Mrs Sheldon left here Wednesday night, ostensibly for Europe, with the intent of making a brief stay in St. Louis. The present theory is that she expects to meet her husband in St. Louis. Police authorities now admit the truth of the report of Finally's call—upon them and all circumstances as far as known go to disprove their theory of abduction.

Jeannette Relics.

PHILADELPHIA, August 15. Captain Wilson, of the bark Fluorine, at this port from Ivigtut, furnishes the following "In June, off Julianshaab, latitude 60°36' north, longitude 46° 07' west, the lower part of a tent was found by Esquimaux on a piece of floe or drift ice, the upper part of which seemed to be blown away, the ends of a store or provision cask marked 'Jeannette,' contents—in store also, marked, a chart and check book on the bank of California, both signed De Long, a pair of oiled trowsers of Louis Noros, and a bear's skin which covered something of the size and shape of a human corpse, but the Esquimaux could not remove the skin to ascertain what was under it."

Irish Demonstration.

CHICAGO, August 15.—Irish national sects of the city held their annual demonstration at Ogden's Grove to-day, about 12,000 people present. Among the speakers was State Senator Grady, of New York. He dwelt at some length on the wrongs of the Irish people. Resolutions passed reasserting determination to continue laboring for the freedom of Ireland till it was achieved.

THE ARCTIC EXTREMITY

Additional Proof of Cannibalism by the Greeley Party.

Their Condition When Rescued Mentioned as Justification.

Further Examination of Buried Victims Determined on.

Men Eating in the Arctic

WASHINGTON, August 15.—The chief signal officer says while the condition of Lieut Kislingbury's remains might indicate that there had been cannibalism among members of the Greeley party, he had heard nothing from Greeley or the survivors that would lead him to believe it was so. He did not doubt there were bickerings and differences among the members of the party, but he would not believe it led to violence or extreme measures of any kind except in the case of Henry.

DETROIT, Michigan, August 15.—C. S Clark, guardian of the children of Lieut. Kislingbury, in an interview this morning said "If brought to such a point of starvation I think the unfortunate men would have been thoroughly justified in doing so. It may be before he died Kislingbury was forced to do likewise. It is, to say the least, cruel to criticise in the manner that has been done, the unfortunate party on its return from the horrors of their exile. The friends of Lieutenant Kislingbury made a sad mistake in my judgment when they permitted the body to be exhumed." He stated that the relations of Greeley and Kislingbury were most cordial, and stories to the contrary were unjust and untrue. He bases his belief in this on conversations with several survivors.

NEW YORK, August 15.—Third Officer Kelly, of the steamer Bear, this morning said the report of eating the flesh of Lieutenant Kislingbury and Private Henry were true, as the survivors when brought on board were all but delirious, and they had to eat the dead bodies to preserve their own lives. The cook of the Bear said the survivors stated they had to eat the flesh of the dead, as all their food except a little leather or seal skin had given out. All the men on board the Bear knew the bodies had been eaten, but were told not to speak about it when they got into port.

Coroner Robinson, of Long Island City, has written Miss Dora Buck, at Lincoln, Neb., the sister of Private Henry, asking if she desires his remains examined. If she replies affirmatively the coroner will have them exhumed. Since the result of the examination of Kislingbury's body the citizens of Long Island City have been greatly excited, but the coroner refuses to exhume Henry's body until authorized by his sister.

Greeley's Report.

WASHINGTON, August 15.—Records and relics of the Greeley Arctic expedition, which were brought to New York and then turned over to authorities at Governor's island, were brought here to-day and delivered to the chief signal officer. They will be used by Lieutenant Greeley in making his report of the expedition, and by the chief signal officer in making his report to the secretary of war. The collection includes all records of scientific work and discoveries of the Greeley party, their instruments and private papers, and diaries of members. When the expedition was fitted out every member was supplied with blank books in which to keep their personal record of events during their stay in the Arctic regions. It was the understanding that these records were their personal property and not subject to supervision by Lieut. Greeley or any one else. Seventeen of them have been preserved. Their contents will be considered confidential between the government and the writers, and while portions of them will be used in making up the history of the expedition nothing they contain will be made public until Lieut. Greeley's report of the expedition is completed. General Hazen says it may be a year before Greeley's report is finished.

Relatives Object

WASHINGTON, August 15.—Arrangements had been made to open the casket containing the remains of Sergeant Cross of the Greeley expedition this evening and make postmortem examination of the body, but the plan was abandoned because of objection of the widow and mother of the deceased.

Another Body to be Examined.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., August 15.—A telegram from Delhi, Ind., to a representative of the associated press to-night says that friends of William Whistler, who was a member of the Greeley party, have decided to exhume the body next Sunday.

The Markets.

NEW YORK, August 15.—Money easy 1½ to 2, closing 1; prime paper 5½ to 6½; sterling exchange steady 4 82½, demand 4 84½; governments strong, railways higher. Erie new second consols rose to 66¾. State securities quiet. The share market was strong and less active to-day. After a quiet opening speculation became strong and there was a general advance of ¼ to 1⅛, Union Pacific, Pacific Mail and Rock Island recording the greatest improvement. This was followed by a fractional reaction, but later Erie developed great strength, rising from 16¾ to 19 on Saratoga buying and on report of favorable developments. It was stated that President Jewett having declined to accept another term it would be received by John King, formerly receiver for the Ohio & Mississippi. The rise in Erie had a strengthening effect on the remainder of the list. In the afternoon there was a reaction of ¼ to 1¼ per cent. At the close speculation was firm. There was a brisk demand for all leading shares for borrowing purposes. Compared with last evening closing prices are ¼ to 1¼ per cent higher, except for Canada Southern, Central Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, Missouri Pacific and Wabash, which are ⅛ to ½ per cent lower. Transactions 227,000 shares.

Considerable interest and activity were noticed in mining shares to-day, the demand being general, while Consolidated Virginia and State Lines were largely traded in. Prices to-day were firm and higher. Standard was in demand and was higher at 1 40. Consolidated Pacific went up to 59. Bodie was lower at 1 85, Oriental & Miller active and higher at 18, Consolidated Virginia stronger at 34. Tuscarora stocks were stirring again with Belle Isle in demand at 70, and Navajo better at 4 25.

ST. LOUIS, August 15.—A Houston, Texas, special to the Post Dispatch says: An incendiary fire at Lampasas destroyed the business portion of town. Loss not estimated. G T. Malone, banker, and S D Crittenden, merchant, are the heaviest losers. The same town experienced a fifty thousand dollar blaze a couple of weeks ago.

LONDON, August 15.—Fire started this forenoon in the envelope factory of James Hodson, Little Trinity lane. Many employes were compelled to jump to the street, and several, including women, were injured. An adjoining building occupied by William Chase & Co., American merchants, was fired and is now burning. Other buildings are in danger. The loss has already reached fifty thousand pounds.

4 p. m.—The fire is finally subdued.

CINCINNATI, August 15.—Fire this afternoon started in Hinton & Cole's lumber yard, in the eastern portion, and is still burning. The Little Miami railroad is blocked. The Rockwood pottery is consumed and the Little Miami cattle sheds are gone. Some twenty dwellings are on fire. Loss to the lumber company $60,000, other losses not estimated. Burning buildings and telegraph and telephone poles fell across the railroad consuming ties and blocking passage of all trains to and from the Little Miami depot. There was lack of water and the firemen worked at great disadvantage. No cases of exhaustion from heat were reported. Rumors were spread during the excitement of children burned to death, of men killed by the explosion of a boiler. These are not verified. By the severest effort the flames were gotten under control by five o'clock. Ten dwellings were destroyed, mostly small frames. The aggregate loss on them will not exceed $15,000. Hinton & Coles have no insurance.

COLORADO AFFAIRS.

The Situation in the Gunnison Republican Convention.

Commissioner Daniels Announces Change of Railway Rates.

Demands of the Union Pacific Strikers Acceded to.

Gunnison County Republicans.

Special to the GAZETTE

GUNNISON, August 15.—The convention is harmonious, but no vote has been had for position on the state ticket. Fesler has twenty out of the fifty-one delegates for state treasurer. The field has combined against him and selected their chairman. He cannot get the delegation but he can control the choice of this convention, which is uncertain as yet. Thomas wants attorney general; Wilder wants to be auditor, but Gray is in the lead for state treasurer after Fesler. The convention probably will not finish before to-morrow. The choice of delegates for governor and United States senator is very mixed. Delegates to state and district conventions are not yet selected.

Change of Railroad Rates

DENVER, August 15.—This morning Commissioner Daniels issued a circular regarding change of rates between Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, and between Missouri river and Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, which reads as follows. "Commencing August 10, 1884, rates of fares will be, on all classes of business, unlimited or limited, between Denver and Pueblo, $5, between Denver and Colorado Springs, $3 25, between Pueblo and Colorado Springs, $2 00. Unlimited first class and limited first class, west of the Missouri river and Denver, via Union Pacific or Burlington & Missouri, $22 50 and $19 00, west of the Missouri river and Denver via Pueblo, $27 50 and $19 00, west of the Missouri river and Pueblo, via Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway and west of the Missouri river and Pueblo, via Denver, $22 50 and $19 00; west of the Missouri river and Colorado Springs, via Pueblo $27.50 and $19 00, west of the Missouri river and Colorado Springs, via Denver, $24 50 and $19 00, now $25 75 and $19 00. Ticket agents will adopt the above figures in making rates to Colorado Springs, all other rates having been abolished from August 10, 1884. Formerly rates of fare from the Missouri river points to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo were, unlimited $22.50, limited, $19.00. This change has been made to conform with the new arrangements entered into between the Denver & New Orleans and the Denver & Rio Grande railways.

CHICAGO, August 15.—A Daily News Omaha special says: A committee of Union Pacific shop men who have been on a strike arrived here to-day and had a conference with General Manager Clark. It appears the trouble arose from a reduction of wages in the shops at Ellis and laying off of some men at Denver, the result being a strike in all shops on the road. Clark said the reduction was unauthorized and was unknown to him till he saw the account of the strike. The result was that he issued an order restoring old rates at Ellis and returning to work the men laid off at Denver, and promising there would not again be a reduction of wages. If necessary to furnish work for all the hours of labor would be reduced.

JOHN CAMPBELL, Chairman

At twenty-five cents a head it would cost some $1,250 for this city to visit Cheyenne cañon. We understand the cost of North Cheyenne cañon with improvements together with a ranch at the mouth has been about $7,000. This is not much more than a dollar and a quarter a head for the inhabitants in this city and we should pay this toll in five or six visits. We ought to be able to pay at least the cost of this cañon

The Denver News does not seem to notice the democratic party in this state. It is giving its exclusive attention to republican politics. It does not even notice any candidates for the democratic nominations at the state convention. It simply shows that the democratic party in this state does not have any expectations of doing anything this fall. It has never won a victory in this state except by the aid of republican votes and it has less chance this year than ever.

W. A. C. Camplin, Esq., of Boulder county, will be a candidate for state auditor under certain contingencies. He has volunteered to give way to Maxwell for congress and Wilder for state treasurer. But in case neither party succeeds in getting the nomination, he is to have the solid vote of the county for that office. This shows a commendable spirit of compromise which if more generally followed by candidates would save many fights unfortunate for the party. His experience in the postoffice department makes him familiar with accounts so that he is well fitted for the position.

The state republican press is almost unanimous in urging Senator Hill's re-election. This is because of the very able and faithful way he has discharged his trust. It is an important thing for a silver state like Colorado to have the ablest representative of bi-metallism in the senate its representative as well. Bragg, of Wisconsin, said he loved Cleveland for the enemies he had made. This can well be said of Senator Hill. The Union Pacific and Western Union are moving heaven and earth to defeat Hill because of his fight against fraudulent land grants and his postal telegraph bill. If the primaries in Denver represent the popular sentiment he will undoubted carry them.

We print a letter from "Working Woman" on "Cheyenne Cañon Tolls." In this discussion it is important to keep in mind the standpoint from which these criticisms are made. The criticisms are entirely from the standpoint of the toll payer. To him the toll is excessive. It may not be excessive so far as the treasury of the Colorado College Land company is concerned. It is possible that the receipts are no more than is necessary to pay the improvements already made, and the improvements that are in prospect, together with endowing the college library and helping poor students. But the fact remains that tourists consider they are being bled when they pay this toll. The public has an interest in it, because the acts of this land company reflect on the whole city. It creates a bad and unjust impression of us. It may be said that this land company owns this cañon, and can do as it chooses, and charge as much toll as it likes. This may be legally true, But this company has not professed to be a selfish organization. It bought the lands first, we understand, as a matter of public spirit to keep a beer garden out. Now while such a company may have the legal right to keep the public out of this cañon, it certainly has no moral right. We do not believe that any person or incorporation has the moral right to take one of these beautiful spots that the public has learned to depend on, and appropriate it for private uses. We are not speaking of those who early came here and appropriated beautiful places. We speak of those who acquired a title to a place like Cheyenne canon after it had become the breathing place of a whole city, and then put up fences and prohibited the public from entering it except at a toll that is prohibitory to the poor who need its fresh and cool air. This is a moral wrong to the community, and is unjustifiable selfishness. Of course no party is obliged to turn himself into a philanthropist and buy cañons and improve them for nothing. But no party is obliged to buy these cañons and improve them. If they are bought for private gain, it is a selfish unchristian act that no public spirited man or corporation would perform. If on the other hand they are bought as a matter of public spirit to keep objectionable people out, then this same public spirit would gladly turn the cañons over at cost to the public. At present the toll gate is not less objectionable than a decent beer saloon with a free entrance to the cañon. Certainly the latter would create a much better impression with tourists. We say this with no desire to impugn the motives of those who own North Cheyenne cañon. We have believed that public spirit prompted the purchase of the cañon. We hope that public spirit will influence its management or disposition. We do not expect that the city will possess these cañons without re-embursing fully the corporation that owns it. But we do not expect that any one will try to make money out of an act done with public spirit. Nor do we expect that a party that buys a cañon, as a matter of public spirit, will manage it against the interests of the community it attempted to serve.

The Cheyenne Canon Tolls

To the Editor of the GAZETTE—

DEAR SIR—In your timely editorial of August 14 on the subject of the Cheyenne cañons is the following paragraph:

"There seems to be no objection to paying the toll on Cheyenne mountain, as the road is twenty miles long, and public enterprise could not have been expected to have built it. But to pay twice as much to enter a cañon, and ride three miles, is considered preposterous."

This is an understatement. One may very easily pay, for entering the cañons, more than "twice as much" as for going up Cheyenne mountain.

The toll for driving over the Cheyenne mountain road is not rated at so much per head, but at so much per vehicle. This is, so far as I know, the universal custom on toll roads.

The rates are usually to be found printed on a board at the gate as follows: So much for a foot passenger, so much for a horse with rider, so much for a one horse vehicle; so much for a two horse vehicle, etc.

Whether the two horse vehicle carries four or eight passengers makes no difference. The charge is the same. This is manifestly fair. But the Colorado College Land company, in its zeal to get as large revenues as possible out of the cañons, has ignored this established custom of toll roads, and asks twenty-five cents per head for all persons, old and young. The aggregate thus reached—in the case of some parties is simply a monstrous exaction.

A friend of mine paid the other day two dollars for driving up North Cheyenne cañon in a barouche with six grown people and two children.

Last month a lady, a resident of this town, having promised a party of children a birthday picnic in the cañon, arrived at the gate to be told that she could not take her party in for less than three dollars and seventy five cents. Reluctantly she took the disappointed children away.

More than once this summer carriage loads of tourists have turned back at the gate, indignant, declaring that they would not submit to such an exaction.

Others have gone in, paying from $1.50 to two dollars for their party, but protesting warmly against the imposition.

This is simply extortion. The evil effect on our town of having these things reported in the eastern states cannot be reckoned or measured.

Niagara Falls has, for years, been a by-word of reproach for just such extortions as these. It is now shunned by travelers, rarely visited twice by any one, and fled from by all as soon as possible. We shall deserve the same fate, if we do not, and that speedily, contrive in some way to rescue our town from the disgrace of having its most beautiful scenery, and its only cool shade and running water, kept under lock and key, and shown to strangers only at a quarter of a dollar a head.

As for the Colorado College Land company, I am informed that they intend to contest at law, the right of the county commissioners to declare the North Cheyenne cañon road open a half mile beyond the present toll gate.

I am glad to hear this. Perhaps that will rouse the town to a sense of what it has been tamely submitting to in these tolls, and of what it may be in danger in the future.

There are hundreds of witnesses ready to testify that they drove into North Cheyenne cañon on that road twelve years ago, and there cannot be a judge in the county who would not give a decision in favor of the commissioners and the people in this case.

By all means let us have the trial! And when the toll gate is moved a half mile or so farther up—as it will be and there is thus left a little steep of cool shade and running water, free for all time, to the people of this town, even then let the Colorado College Land company recollect in setting up their new toll gate that a wise man of old said, in that Bible which they profess to take as holding the doctrine to be preached and taught in their college, "There is that withholdeth more than is meet; but it tendeth to poverty."

A Dealer in Precious Stones.

Chambers' Journal.

Being on his way home from China, the ship put in at one of the Ceylon ports, and the usual crowd of hucksters invaded the ship. My friend had gone on shore, and only returned on board about half an hour before the time fixed for sailing. Coming out on deck, he was accosted by a beturbaned, venerable old gentleman, who said he had some valuable stones for sale, if my friend would only look at them. He opened his case and presented for inspection a small number of rubies and emeralds of various sizes, a fine collection of stones unset—the usual condition in which they are offered for sale in Ceylon—and said the price was £30, apparently about their actual value out there. This was a large sum to my friend; so, after admiring the stones for some time, he said he was afraid he could not spend so much money. After considerable hesitation, and declaring that he should not make a penny by the transaction, the dealer lowered his price to £29. My friend still considered, and was on the point of offering £25, as the stones would then have been a really good bargain, when the trader went down to £28. My friend waited, and eventually £20 was reached. A slight suspicion dawned over my friend's mind, and on the chance, he looked straight into the man's face and said, "I will give you a shilling." "Very good, sir," and the man pocketed his shilling, handed in his "precious stones" and was over the side just in time before the ship got under weigh. The precious stones were mere glass.

MAUD HOWE'S NOVEL.

"The San Rosario Ranch!"

Third Thousand. $1.25.

This is an extract from the Boston Daily Advertiser's review, and there is no more able critical authority: "The 'San Rosario Ranch' belongs to a noble class of novels; it deals with the deepest feelings, the strongest emotions and the most powerful motives in human life. It is on a high plain, far above the petty strife, ambition and jealousy out of which 'society novels' are manufactured. The book is written in a spirit of large sympathy, and without one touch of censoriousness or ridicule. This sympathy is far-reaching; it is given to the Indian, driven from his mission; to the faithful Chinaman, killed by the fury of a white scoundrel; to the rich and coarse Irishman, living in splendor and in fear of his butler—of all of them some good is told; the best side is the one that is made prominent. The book is not a sermon, although its tone is so grave and its spirit so earnest; it is a good, warm-love-story, with plenty of life, of incident and of narrow escapes, and it is a very attractive picture of California life and California people."

THE RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Notes and Comments

The last number of the Popular Science Monthly contains a masterly argument against positivism by Herbert Spencer The article is republished from the July Nineteenth Century, and is a reply to Mr Harrison's somewhat satirical review of a previous article by Mr Spencer, entitled, "Religion—a Retrospect and Prospect."

Extremes meet, and it is curious to find Mr Spencer preaching the doctrine of the universal depravity of man about as vigorously as any old New England theologian "I am told," says Mr Spencer, "that by certain of M. Comte's disciples (though not by those Mr Harrison represents) prayer is addressed to 'holy Humanity' Had I to choose an epithet, I think 'holy' is about the last which would occur to me" * * "So far from seeing in the 'Great Being Humanity,' as thus defined, anything worshipful, it seems to me that contemplation of it is calculated to excite feelings which it is best to keep out of consciousness"

He proceeds by manifold illustration social and individual, to show the weaknesses and faults and iniquities of mankind even in the illustration of such men as Sir Isaac Newton. His arraignment of human nature for its guilt has not often recently matched in secular literature

Mr Spencer in this article declares himself as holding "that science shows that we can know phenomena only, its arguments involve no denial of an existence beyond phenomena." He takes the strong theistic ground that "an indestructible consciousness of the reality-transcending existence is the very basis of our intelligence" He says that while we are not warranted in affirming of the unknowable cause such human attributes as emotion, will, and intelligence, we are just as much debarred from denying such attributes

Mr. Spencer's difficulty appears to be that he has no place for faith in his system. Science does not, let it be granted, incontestably demonstrate that emotion, will and intelligence belong to the great cause. It does however make such an affirmation highly probable. Religion comes in now where science ends and says, "I believe that God knows, wills and loves. Science does not deny such attributes I will take them on trust. I will have men live as if God knew, willed and loved." This is the attribute of faith. "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" Whoever lives in faith in God as a being of intelligence, will and love, and makes his deeds correspond with his faith gets the strongest assurance of the reasonableness of his faith. For he finds his life falling into a perfect harmony with the universal order which it had not before known "Whoso followeth me," said Jesus, "shall not walk in darkness but shall have the light of life"

The statistical exhibits of the northern and southern Presbyterian churches have just been prepared for publication. In the north Presbyterian are 615,942 communicants and 687,269 members of Sunday school In the south Presbyterian church 131,258 communicants and only 90,463 Sunday school members. It will be observed that in the northern church the members of the Sunday schools very considerably exceed the church membership, while in the southern church the members of Sunday school are only about two-thirds as many as the communicants. This is probably due in part to the fact that the character of the population in the south is more rural and scattered than in the north, but it would seem as if there must be other influences at work to account for the comparatively small Sunday school membership in the southern church. In the northern church there were 19,450 infant baptisms In the southern a somewhat larger percentage. Infant baptism evidently is not declining in the Presbyterian church.

Messrs. Gurney and Myers continue to furnish interesting and valuable data for the study of the new science which they have named telepathy or the capacity of the mind to receive in some yet mysterious way impressions of what transpires at a distance If it is true as seems now to be tolerably well established that under certain conditions a person may be made more or less clearly conscious of what is in the mind of another person separated from it maybe by many miles of space—then most of the curious phenomena of clairvoyance and spiritualistic seances are capable of a natural solution, and a whole realm of phenomena which has been largely surrendered to superstition and fraud is thrown open to cool and impartial scientific study. If some persons under certain conditions have the power of putting themselves so en rapport with me as to be able to read what is in my consciousness, then I need not be surprised at a clairvoyant's declaration to me of facts which nobody but myself knows. The fact remains a curious one but it is no longer staggering or supernatural. The gain to rational religion it will be seen is considerable.

The following incident—related in a recent article by Messrs Gurney and Myers in the Nineteenth Century on visual apparitions, is of interest in this connection. The account was sent by the Rev. Canon Warburton of Winchester cathedral: "Somewhere about the year 1848, I went up from Oxford to stay a day or two with my brother Acton Warburton then a barrister, living at 10 Fish street, Lincoln's Inn. When I got to his chambers I found a note on the table apologizing for his absence and saying that he had gone to a dance somewhere in the West End and intended to be home soon after 1 o'clock Instead of going to bed, I dozed in an armchair but started up wide awake exactly at one ejaculating, 'By Jove, he's down,' and seeing him coming out of a drawing room into a brightly illuminated landing, catching his foot in the edge of the top stair and falling headlong, just saving himself by his elbows and hands (the house was one I had never seen, nor did I know where it was) Thinking very little of the matter, I fell a doze again and was awakened by my brother suddenly coming in and saying 'Oh, there you are! I have just had as narrow an escape of breaking my neck as I ever had in my life Coming out of the ballroom I caught my foot and tumbled full length down the stairs'" In a second letter Canon Warburton says "This is my only experience of the kind"

In the Atlantic of this month Kate Garrett Wells has an entertaining sketch of the Rev Ezra Stiles, the friend of Jefferson and Franklin, pastor of Newport and late president of Yale college, a noble man in his day Some of Dr Stiles' theological propositions would be likely to wake up an audience in these days—such as the following — — —

"God is the intentional, efficient author of Sin" "It is of the essence of holiness and true submission to God to be willing to be damned" "Sin is good" "Vice's virtue" "Social evil is a holy good" "Regeneration may be as well effected when you are asleep as when you are awake"

Sunday closing of dram shops in Ireland which has been enforced in the greater part of the island since 1879 has worked well The arrests for drunkenness on Sunday were as one to seventeen on week days The magistrates are almost unanimous in saying that the law greatly promotes peace "Of course it does," says the Independent, "and some day the British mind, which moves slowly in the direction of prohibition, will awake to the fact that the law which works so well on Sunday will work just as well every day."

THE LADY OR THE TIGER? AND OTHER STORIES By Frank R Stockton $1

No magazine story for a very long time has given rise to such animated discussion as Mr Stockton's enigmatical narration "The Lady or the Tiger" "His Wife's Deceased Sister," "The Transferred Ghost" "That Same Old 'Coon'" "Mr Tolman," "The Training of Parents," "Every Man His Own Letter Writer," and the other stories which make up this collection, are equally remarkable for their novelty, surprise of plot, and cleverness

THE KING'S MEN. A Tale of To morrow By Robert Grant, John Boyle O'Reilly, J S of Dale, and John T. Wheelwright 1 vol, 12mo, cloth, $1 25.

This daring and ingenious story of the future is unquestionably destined to be the most widely discussed book of the summer The brilliant literary partnership which produced it has aroused the keenest curiosity and certainly the experiment has been the boldest in the history of literary collaboration Of the plot or of what can be gathered from the story's motto concerning the [illegible] of the reign of King George the Fifth, it may truly be said that the audacity of their conception is fully supported by the admirable rolling and exciting incidents of the story The book is crowded with action and tangent in its complication, and yet the powers which the authors have shown elsewhere are never lost in its rapid movement.

Though not a political document the story, "The End of New York," by Park Benjamin, will be one of peculiar interest to those who a few years ago were disposed to criticise Mr Blaine's foreign policy, It will be found in the midsummer number of Stories by American Authors For sale everywhere, 50 cents

"A brilliant series" is what the Boston Courier calls Scribner's Stories by American Authors. Five volumes are now published, containing nearly thirty strikingly individual and meritorious tales. Bound in cloth, 50 cents each,

NEW YORK

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO'S

NEW BOOKS.

A COUNTRY DOCTOR. A novel By Sarah Orne Jewett, author of "Deephaven," "Country By Ways," etc. 16mo, $1 25.

In this novel Miss Jewett uses on a larger scene and with increased effect the qualities which have made her short stories so popular and so thoroughly delightful. A woman physician figures in it, but the story is quite unlike the novels by Mr. Howells and Miss Phelps in which women physicians are the heroines. It gives wonderfully accurate pictures of New England characters, customs and scenery; the heroine is "one of our girls" and as such will charm readers as few heroines do in current novels. The freshness, the sincerity, the helpful sympathy, which render Miss Jewett's stories at once so attractive and wholesome, pervade "A Country Doctor," and can hardly fail to make it one of the most widely popular and welcome of this summer's novels

THE FATE OF MANSFIELD HUMPHREYS With the Episode of Mr. Washington Adams in England, and an Apology. By Richard Grant White. 16mo, $1.25.

This is one of the most entertaining of "international" books, in which the mutual misconceptions and prejudices of Englishmen and Americans are developed and illustrated

PHŒBE A Novel By the author of "Rutledge." 16mo, $1,25

An American story in character and incidents, told with so much life and spirit that it will be hailed as a special boon by novel readers. To a multitude looking for summer reading, this story needs no other recommendation than that it is by the author of "Rutledge."

THE AMERICAN HORSEWOMAN. By Elizabeth Karr. Illustrated, 12mo, $2.00.

An admirably practical book The selection and management of a horse, all the details of equipment, every separate article of dress that the rider should wear, and the making of it—all these are described specifically, and the book is made still more useful by illustrative cuts, the whole forming a manual of great value to any lady who would become thoroughly skillful in the equestrienne art.

SUMMER. From the Journals of H. D. Thoreau, author of "Walden," "Cape Cod," etc. Edited by H G. O. Blake. With a map of Concord 12mo, gilt top, $1 50.

This book comprises selections from Thoreau's Journals containing observations and reflections during the summers of many years. Some of these are descriptive, with that fine photographic accuracy which marks Thoreau's pictures of natural scenes. Other passages contain those subtle reflections on society, religion, laws, literature, which also characterize whatever Thoreau wrote, and which pique the curiosity and stimulate the minds of his readers.

The state convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union meets in Pueblo the middle of September, to be presided over by Mrs. Spoery.

A number of the traveling passenger agents who did not join the excursion to Leadville and Gunnison stopped over in the city yesterday on their way to Wagon Wheel Gap.

Sergeant Hall reports that a lady's horse on the peak backed to within five feet of the crater. Had the animal and rider gone over they would have fallen a sheer thousand feet.

A conference was held last night between the druggists and members of the city police committee in regard to license for the sale of liquor for mechanical, sacramental and medicinal purposes.

Effie Ellsler will appear at the opera house next Saturday night in "La Belle Russe." Miss Ellsler was a great favorite in Colorado Springs as "Hazel Kirke" and we predict that she will have a big [illegible].

Mr. Charles A. Lee, formerly of the firm of Durkee & Lee, writes from St. Louis, where he is now engaged in business, that the arrival of a boy in the family may be news to some of the friends of the family in Colorado Springs.

According to the weather observations taken at Colorado college yesterday the highest temperature was 53.0°, and the velocity of the wind 150 miles. For the preceding day the mean temperature was 63.7°, and the mean barometer was 24.148 inches.

The excursion train which left for Palmer lake yesterday morning at 9.15 took about forty persons from Colorado Springs. There were on the train when it reached here about 185. Denver sent two excursion trains, consequently there must have been somewhat of a crowd at the lake.

The following unclaimed telegrams are held at the Western Union Telegraph office in this city: Dudley Allen, M. D., H. H. Gray, Isaac Rossler, Geo. D. Rice, Will Shideler, Cyrus D. Ray, R. M. Scroggles, H. Reed, Mrs. J. H. Trotter, R. H. Porter, Miss Alice Butler, R. C. Foster, 2, W. G. Brown.

There were about fifteen hundred people at Palmer Lake yesterday. In the way of amusements there was boating, dancing, swimming matches, foot races, Caledonian games, and other events too numerous to mention. All who were present seemed to enjoy the sports and expressed themselves as being extremely well pleased with the lake as a place of resort.

The W. S. Jackson Hose Co. still retains the best record made not only in this state but in the United States, but as they have not competed for the championship belt for two years it goes to the team making the best records at the succeeding tournaments. The Jacksons won it in 34 seconds, the best time on record. On August 26th the state tournament will be given at Pueblo. While we have no hose teams to enter we know that the members of our fire department will give our neighboring city all the encouragement they can. Colorado Springs had the tournament three years ago and we ought to reciprocate for the courtesies then extended.

H. BOHM & CO.,
Who are now closing out a magnificent line of diamonds, watches, jewelry and plated ware at auction, in the store three doors north of the post office, will probably remain only this week. As this firm is closing out their stock to quit the business, they will commence on September 1st, at their store—No. 301 and 303 Sixteenth street, Denver—to sell their entire stock at auction. As their line is immense and all nice goods, parties after bargains in diamonds or any article of fine jewelry, watches or plated ware, will do well to call on them during the exposition next month. As we mean business, the goods must go no matter what they bring. H. Bohm & Co., jewelers, 301 and 303 Sixteenth street, Denver. 1
